

Completion of US Tax Certification Forms

Unless you complete a US Tax Certification Form, as described below, dividends or distributions declared and paid to you by CRH will be subject to US backup withholding, meaning you will not receive the full value of your entitled dividend.

To receive your dividends in full, please complete and return the required US Tax Certification Form. The certification can be completed in two ways – online through the Computershare US Investor Center or by completing a paper copy of the form which can be downloaded from the Computershare website, www.computershare.com/crh

To complete the required form online log into the Computershare US Investor Center. Once logged in, select “View and update your profile”, then “Tax Details” and complete the online form.

NOTE: Non-individual holders (e.g. corporations, business entities) need to submit the IRS Form W-8BEN-E

NOTE: If the Form W-8BEN-E does not apply to you and should you require W-8ECI, W-8EXP or W-8IMY you can obtain these forms and instructions from the IRS website

Please note that your Tax Identification Number ("TIN") is the tax identification number issued to you by your home jurisdiction (e.g. your PPS Number if you are an Irish resident shareholder). Please insert your country of residence in the field marked "Claim for Treaty Benefits" as this will ensure that if there is a Double Taxation Agreement between your country of residence and the US you will not be charged US backup withholding on your future dividends. Such Agreements are in place between the US and Ireland, the UK and most EU countries. A full list of such agreements is available on the IRS website (<https://www.irs.gov/businesses/international-businesses/united-states-income-tax-treaties-a-to-z>)

If there are joint holders, each holder must complete and return a separate form in order for the correct tax treatment to be applied to your dividends.
