I. Introduction

CRH is committed to supporting all persons, including current, potential, and former employees, independent contractors, customers, and suppliers in coming forward with any genuine concerns of wrongdoing within CRH. This Speak Up Policy (the "Policy") forms part of this commitment.

If a person has a genuine concern of possible wrongdoing relevant to CRH's Code of Business Conduct, inappropriate or illegal behaviour, or violations of local laws (generally referred to as a "Reportable Concern"), they should report it under this Policy. They should "Speak Up".

Examples of Reportable Concerns for the purpose of this Policy are genuine concerns relating to any of the following:

- Legal Obligations: failure to comply with any legal obligations (examples include concerns relating to public procurement, consumer protection, financial or non-financial reporting/record-keeping), except for Employment Concerns as described below
- Health & Safety breaches: any health, safety, or environmental concern (examples include transport safety, protection of the environment, public health, product safety and compliance)
- Criminal Offences: any criminal offence (examples include fraud, theft, antitrust/competition violations, bribery and corruption)
- Security breaches: any threat to the protection of personal data and security of network and information systems
- Unethical behaviour: any violation of the CRH Code of Business Conduct, except for Employment Concerns as described below
- Practices causing harm to CRH or its people: any violation of a CRH policy that could cause harm to CRH and/or its people, except for Employment Concerns as described below; and
- Retaliation: any concerns of retaliation for Speaking Up

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Policy, Reportable Concerns do not include, and this Policy is not intended to apply to:

Employment Concerns Each CRH business has employee-related policies and procedures ("Employment Policies") in place to address employee concerns, complaints, and issues regarding (1) their interactions with their supervisors, company management, and other employees and (2) the terms and conditions of their employment. If an employee has a complaint of this nature, it is referred to as an "Employment Concern". Proper handling of these concerns requires a thorough knowledge of the relevant business and its Employment Policies, as well as local laws. Therefore, they are best resolved according to the business's own investigative policies and procedures. This Policy does not replace the regular reporting lines or complaints procedures within local operating companies.

Emergencies These should be immediately reported to the relevant local authorities.

II. Ways to Speak Up

CRH has created various means to Speak Up about Reportable Concerns ("Speak Up Reports") and is committed to dealing with any concern appropriately and confidentially.

Regardless of the reporting channel used, all Reportable Concerns should be reported as soon as reasonably possible. There are multiple ways to Speak Up within CRH:

Business Management: Employees are encouraged to Speak Up to the leadership of their local operating company.

Speak Up POC: Certain CRH businesses have identified an internal, impartial, and competent Speak Up Point of Contact ("Speak Up POC"), who is a dedicated resource within the business for receiving Speak Up Reports. These individuals can be contacted by phone, email, or in person. Contact information for each Speak Up POC is provided at Appendix 1.

Fraud POC: If it is a fraud or a theft, there are Fraud Points of Contact that have been identified within the businesses and all actual, suspected or attempted frauds or thefts can be reported to the Fraud Point of Contact.

Hotline: Speak Up Reports can be submitted confidentially, in various languages, by phone or online, to the CRH Hotline: www.crhhotline.com. CRH's Global Head of Compliance and the regional Legal and Compliance teams oversee the intake and investigation assignment of all Speak Up Reports received through the CRH Hotline. The CRH Hotline is hosted by an independent third party. Reporters can monitor the status of the report and communicate with CRH through the Hotline.

Reports can also be submitted anonymously through the CRH Hotline. If the Reporter chooses to be anonymous, no information regarding their identity is collected. Once the report is made, the third party will simply provide CRH with the details given by the Reporter. Upon submitting a report to the CRH Hotline, the Reporter is given a unique ID and password, which can be used to anonymously monitor the status of the report on www.crhhotline.com (or by calling the CRH Hotline again). The ID and password also give the Reporter access to messages from CRH about their report and allow the Reporter to leave anonymous messages as well. This provides a means for ongoing anonymous communication between the Reporter and CRH, which may not be possible when using other reporting channels.

Legal and Compliance: Reporters can also Speak Up to their local Legal and Compliance contact or any of the nominated senior leaders listed below (contact information is provided in Section V).

III. Our Policy

CRH is committed to:

- Ensuring that anyone with a Reportable Concern has sufficient channels through which to Speak Up in a secure and confidential manner and, if they wish, anonymously
- Identifying competent persons to investigate Speak Up Reports objectively
- Following-up with Speak Up Reporters as appropriate regarding the status of investigation into their Reportable Concern
- Treating all parties involved in a Speak Up Report investigation fairly and respectfully
- Treating Speak Up Reports and investigations with the highest level of confidentiality, as appropriate to the circumstances
- Evaluating the facts established by a Speak Up investigation to determine what, if any, remediation and/or disciplinary action should be considered

- Taking all reasonable steps to protect a Speak Up Reporter and applying a zero-tolerance approach to any retaliation for raising a Reportable Concern in accordance with local laws (note that this does not protect a Speak Up Reporter from any disciplinary action that may be warranted due to their own actions)
- Protecting, as far as possible, sensitive company and personal information that may be disclosed while making a Speak Up Report or in the investigation process (for more information see Speak Up FAQs, Appendix 2)

Any form of retaliation for Speaking Up is a breach of this Policy and CRH's Code of Business Conduct and will be addressed with disciplinary action. Speak Up Reporters will not be punished or suffer any adverse treatment for raising a genuine concern of wrongdoing. However, submitting a knowingly false Speak Up Report will not be tolerated and CRH may take disciplinary action in accordance with local law. Any criminal conduct may be reported to local law enforcement agencies.

IV. Roles and Responsibilities

All Employees:

- Speak Up if they have a Reportable Concern
- Read and understand this Policy
